

Hitler's Master Plan

left to right—Father Bernhardt Stempfle the editor of Mein Kampf, Hitler’s book about his struggles (‘My Struggles’—Mein Kampf), the Catholic political organization (Zentrum) that brought the Fuhrer to power, Hitler’s portrait, Otto Strasser, author of the book, Hitler and I, and one of the founders of the Nazi Party.

Hitler on Protestantism, Jews and Roman Catholicism

Adolph Hitler said:

“I reject that book by Rosenberg. It was written by a Protestant. It is not a party book . . . As a Catholic I never feel comfortable in the evangelical church or its structures . . . As for the Jews, I am just carrying on with the same policy which the Catholic Church has adopted for fifteen hundred years, when it has regarded the Jews as dangerous and pushed them into ghettos, etc., because it knew what the Jews were like. I don’t put race above religion, but I do see the danger in the representatives of this race for church and state, and perhaps I am doing Christianity (Roman Catholicism) a great service.”¹

Mein Kampf—Rome, Stempfle and Hitler

“Who wrote Mein Kampf? Mein Kampf, the Nazi bible, was supposed to be written by Hitler, but Otto Strasser says in Hitler and I that Mein Kampf was written by a Roman Catholic priest, Father Bernhardt Stempfle, from notes supplied by Hitler. Otto Strasser, a Roman Catholic, was one of the founders of the Nazi Party; Stempfle, a notorious anti-Semite, was a member of the Roman Catholic Order of Saint Jerome.”²

“The Fuhrer had come to power, thanks to the votes of the Catholic Zentrum, only five years before, but most of the objectives cynically revealed in Mein Kampf were already realized; this book, an insolent challenge to the western democracies, was written by the Jesuit Father Stempfle and signed by Hitler. For, as so many ignore the fact, it was the Society of Jesus which perfected the famous Pan-German programme as laid out in this book and the Fuhrer endorsed it.”³

While the leader of the Third Reich recognized the "similarity of race" and "harmony of interests" existing between England and Germany, Hitler's concept of a master race is nonetheless revealed in a quote prior to this admission. Hitler stated: "There can be only a single Great Power in Europe," he said to me one day, "and Germany, the most
