ARMAGEDDON

Antichristian nations of the world assemble in the plain of Megiddo (valley of decision) to strategize their hateful destruction of Jerusalem. Meanwhile Jesus returns with the resurrected saints in glory, and splits the Mt. of Olives creating a massive rift valley. Many Jews escaping from Jerusalem will use this valley to escape the mayhem that ensues. This valley will stretch from the Mount of Olives, in the south, to Azal, or the palace of Hazael, ancient king of Syria in Damascus, to the north. A circuitous valley, winding 178 miles to Damascus, this valley will witness a horrific carnage. Christ will execute unflinching judgment against the ungodly--"blood came out of the winepress, even unto the horses' bridles, by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs" (a furlong is 1/9th of a mile--586 ft. This would make it 178 miles long) (Rev. 14:20). For those who escape the sword proceeding from Jesus' mouth, the battlefield survivors can't conceive the indescribable horror that awaits them. Like a prairie fire that spreads in seconds, an irreversible plague consumes the entire body as men stand upon their feet. The eyes consume away in their holes. The tongue disappears from the mouth (Zech. 14:12).
