

In Other Words

"The Jesuits are a military organization, not a religious order. Their chief is a general of an army, not the mere father abbot of a monastery. And the aim of this organization is: POWER. Power in the most despotic exercise. Absolute power, universal power, power to control the world by the volition of a single man. Jesuitism is the most absolute of despotisms; and at the same time the greatest and the most enormous of abuses." Memorial of the Captivity of Napoleon at St. Helena, by General Montholon, vol. ii, p. 62 (pp. 684, 685 of Chiniquy's book, Fifty Years in the Church of Rome, sixth edition, Copyright © 1886)

"The general of the Jesuits insists on being master, sovereign, over the sovereign. Wherever the Jesuits are admitted they will be masters, cost what it may. Their society is by nature dictatorial, and therefore it is the irreconcilable enemy of all constituted authority. Every act, every crime, however atrocious, is a meritorious work, if committed for the interest of the Society of the Jesuits, or by the order of its general." Memorial of the Captivity of Napoleon at St. Helena, vol. ii, p. 174 (page 685 of Chiniquy's book, Fifty Years in the Church of Rome, sixth edition, Copyright © 1886)
